"WestSide Girl in a Corporate World"

ABOUT GLO

Glo Jackson is an executive leader, speaker, and founder of Stride 773. A self-described "WestSide Girl in a Corporate World," she brings the grit, determination, and perspective shaped by her Chicago roots to everything she does.

Over nearly two decades at Verizon, Glo held leadership roles across customer service, inside sales, retail, and learning and development, most recently serving as Senior Director of Customer Service. She also served as Global Lead and Executive Advisor of an employee resource group supporting more than 6,000 parents and caregivers.

Today, she brings those experiences to conversations about leadership, employee and customer experience, work-life integration, and the human side of AI adoption.
