RACHEL JOSEPH

MOTHERHOOD & FAMILY PHOTOGRAPHER

A note from the photographer -

Photos are an investment - one I don't take lightly. But here's the thing: investments are just that, an investment, because they generate something beyond the initial gallery of images you'll receive.

When you choose to work with me, your photos will transcend beyond the session and become markers of the collective memory and legacy of your family.

Your photos should reignite the feeling, the warmth, and the memories not just a year or two down the road, but again, 20, 30, even 40 years later when you've all changed and grown into something entirely new. That's the power in a photograph, and I want you to hold those transcendent images in your hands for the rest of your days, and your children's days too.

The SHORT FORM SESSION: the bread & butter

for immediate families,
maternity,
newborn, & motherhood

My most commonly booked package. We'll shoot for up to an hour, typically in and around your own home, or at an agreed upon location that meets your vision.

$750

Inclusions:

Welcome Guide + Style Guide + Print Guide to assist you in the pre-session planning process and after your session when you're ready to order prints & more.

Up to one hour of shooting time to allow ample space for relaxing into the experience and pivoting as needed.

50+ edited images in an online gallery where you can mark your favorites, download for sharing to social media, and order premium print products.

Mileage is included in your session fee for the first 50 miles, round trip.

After that, mileage will be charged at a rate of 72.5 cents/mile, added to your invoice.

Extended family sessions begin at $950.

The LONG FORM SESSION: a slower, rhythmic approach

for immediate
families

A session for the family that wants to slow down and savor, experiencing dedicated family time and document more family rhythms or traditions. Do you love to make big pancake breakfasts on Saturday mornings? Go for neighborhood walks together? Take a spin around the lake on the boat? Stroll to your local coffee shop? With 2-3 hours of shooting time, the Long Form Session provides a more relaxed pace and time frame to capture all of it.

$1150

Inclusions:

Welcome Guide + Style Guide + Print Guide to assist you in the pre-session planning process and after your session when you're ready to order prints & more.

Guided planning to map out what rhythms + traditions you're wanting to have preserved for years to come.

2-3 hours of shooting time to allow space for every activity without feeling rushed.

120+ edited images in an online gallery where you can mark your favorites, download for sharing to social media, and order premium print products.

$50 print credit to use in the in-gallery store front.

Mileage is included in your session fee for the first 50 miles, round trip.

After that, mileage will be charged at a rate of 72.5 cents/mile, added to your invoice.

If shooting for 2-3 hours feels like a lot of pressure, believe me, it will be the opposite. We'll have more time to chat throughout the process, leaning into a more sacred, communal approach to documenting family.

A note on payments -

If you've made it this far, it's probably because you see the value in investing in documenting your family in an authentic, honest way while still maintaining an artful, heirloom quality approach.

That being said, I acknowledge that everyone's budgets are different. While a $250 non-refundable retainer is required to book a Short Form Session ($450 for Long Form Sessions), I'm happy to work out a 2 or 3 part payment plan to space out your remaining balance, as long as the session is paid for in full by your session date. Sometimes, I have clients book a bit further out to give them space to accommodate their payment plan.

A note on newborn sessions -

If you've found my work, you've probably already noticed that I don't do the typical studio/staged set-ups for newborn sessions.

I believe having a new baby is so special and, of course, it's important to document the little details and nuances of your newborn that change far too quickly. But I also believe that having a new baby is an integration to your current family unit - i.e. how does the baby fit into the love, joy, & beautiful chaos of our current family dynamic?

So, I shoot newborn sessions with a more holistic, family oriented approach, with a bit of dedicated time just to document baby as they are - no wraps, props, or fluff needed.

Let's get you booked

When you've decided on a package that fits what you're envisioning, let me know and we can kick start the process of booking & planning.

Only once your contract has been signed, and your retainer has been paid, will your session date/time be officially reserved in my calendar. From there, you'll receive your Welcome Guide + Style Guide + Session Questionnaire to begin the planning process.
