Space is the rarest commodity in a sought-after neighborhood, and this home delivers it in a way few ever will. Set on the corner of one of the largest lots in all of Saddleback, just shy of a full acre, it offers something that can't be added later: room to breathe, room to build, room to grow into.

Inside, more than 2,800 square feet unfold across a thoughtfully designed four-bedroom floor plan that lives as well as it shows. Spaces flow with intention, generous and easy, the kind of layout that works whether you're hosting a crowd or settling in for a quiet evening at home.
