Close to home

tank of gas, a good playlist, no real plan —

Auburn & the Confluence

PLACER COUNTY

Basically our backyard. The Auburn State Recreation Area is laced with trails along the American River — from easy riverside strolls to the climb up to the Confluence, where the river's two forks meet. Pack good shoes and a picnic; the canyon views are the whole point.

Apple Hill & Placerville

EL DORADO COUNTY

Fall's happyplace — and lovely year-round. Dozens of family farms in Camino mean apple picking, warm cider doughnuts, pies and pumpkin patches come October. Pair it with a wander down Placerville's historic Main Street.

A little farther

worth the extra few minutes —

Amador Wine Country

Wine country without the Napa crowds. The hills around Plymouth are old-vine Zinfandel country — rolling views, laid-back tasting rooms, and pourers who actually have time to chat. An easyway to lose a golden afternoon.

Nevada City & Grass Valley

NEVADA COUNTY

Two gold-rush towns that kept all their charm — walkable historic downtowns, indie shops and bookstores, cozy cafés and a real arts scene tucked into the pines. Especially magic in the fall and at the holidays.

Worth the drive

a little farther out — and a lot worth it —

Lake Tahoe

The bucket-list lake and a true four-season escape. Summer is beaches, kayaking and paddleboarding on impossibly blue water — you can even zipline through the treetops. Winter brings the ski resorts. Pick one shore and settle in.

Napa & Sonoma

WINE COUNTRY

The classic, for a reason. World-famous vineyards, beautiful tasting rooms, and long lunches worth lingering over. Pick two or three wineries, book ahead, and let someone else do the driving if you can.

When you need the ocean

Bodega Bay & the Sonoma Coast

THE COAST

When you need the ocean, this is the closest stretch of dramatic Northern California coastline — windswept beaches, tide pools, and fresh oysters and chowder right by the water. Bring a jacket; the coast stays cool even in summer, and that's half the magic.
