Mid-century balance, refined through material

The Frame Cocktail Table is a study in proportion and restraint, combining a grounded mid-century sensibility with contemporary refinement. Its silhouette is calm and architectural, designed to anchor a seating area without visual excess.

A thick granite slab forms the tabletop, lending the piece a sense of permanence and material richness. The stone appears to float above the base, separated by a deliberate reveal that introduces lightness and shadow. This subtle gap allows the weight of the stone to feel visually lifted, transforming mass into something quietly elegant.

Below, the base draws inspiration from mid-century design, with tapered wood legs that introduce warmth and a gentle sense of movement. The contrast between the sculpted wood base and the substantial stone top creates a balanced dialogue between softness and strength.

Refined yet approachable, the Frame Cocktail Table integrates effortlessly into a range of interiors. It reflects PARISII philosophy of refined simplicity—where thoughtful proportion, honest materials, and subtle architectural gestures elevate everyday living.
