The Examined Leader

The most expensive blind spot in your organization is the one your leaders cannot see.

"The most dangerous leader in any organization is not the one who does not know enough. It is the one who does not know themselves."

The most expensive line item in your organization is not technology or turnover. It is the unexamined blind spots of the people making decisions. This talk makes the direct business case for self-awareness as a leadership competency. Not a soft skill, not an HR initiative. The foundation of every sound decision a leader makes.

WHAT THE AUDIENCE WALKS AWAY WITH

- ✓ A reframe of self-awareness from personal growth concept to leadership imperative
- ✓ Practical tools for distinguishing fear-based decisions from clear ones
- ✓ A new lens for understanding underperforming team members before acting
- ✓ The ability to identify when hyper-independence is undermining their leadership
- ✓ A framework for building cultures where people tell the truth

THE SPINE OF THE TALK

Own your story before it owns your leadership.

THIS TALK IS FOR

Corporate leadership teams | Executive retreats | Manager development
HR and people ops | Mixed gender professional audiences
