

SARAH Card

Keynote Speaker ♠ Executive Coach

A few years ago, Sarah found herself in the middle of the Caribbean on the balcony of a luxurious Ritz Carlton cruise in a puddle of tears. From the outside looking in she had the perfect life. She had climbed the corporate ladder, built an 8-figure business, married the man, had three kids, bought a home. All the things she was told she should do, achieve and have. But inside there was a restlessness. A longing that wouldn't go away, so that night, as she was ugly crying in the middle of the ocean, she made a courageous decision that she was done playing the hand she was dealt.

It was time to fold the cards she never chose and start playing the cards she was actually created to play.

Signature Keynote

Most people teach women how to start. Sarah Card teaches them how to stop.

Through confessions and lessons from her own life, her audiences walk away able to name the quiet restlessness they've never had words for. They will know exactly which cards in their hand were never theirs to hold, and which rules they've been playing by that someone else wrote into them. Sarah delivers practical tools to allow them to set those down, on purpose, with intention, and pick up the ones they actually want to play, one at a time so they can step into the full authenticity and purpose of who they were created to be.

She doesn't lecture a room. She confesses to it, and every woman in it recognizes herself.

- ♥ Discard: Release what no longer serves you.
- ♦ Embrace: Decide who you truly are.
- ♠ All-In: Commit, with no exit hatch.
- ♣ Lead: Become the woman who deals her own hand
