THE PROJECT

Floral arrangements by The Roseologist

Photography by Lauren Sutton

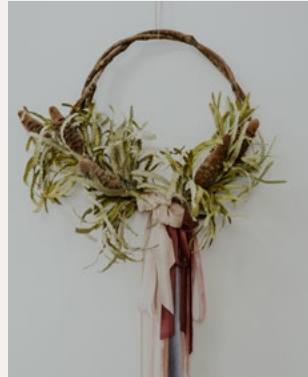

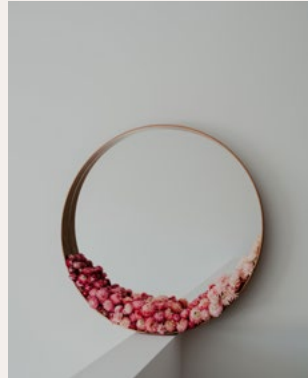

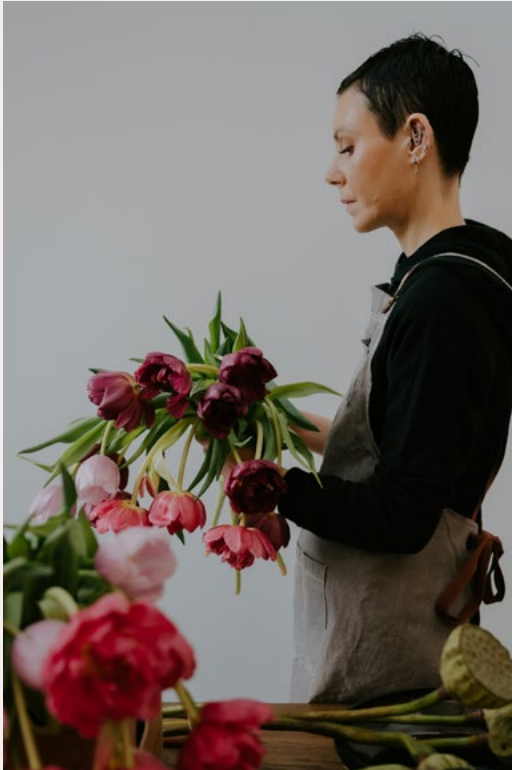

Artists Rhiannon Berry and Lauren Sutton collaborate to produce a range of beautiful fine art prints with a botanical theme.

What started out as a project to capture portfolio images – Rhiannon aka The Roseologist, as floral artist, Lauren as photographer – turned into an artistic collaboration where Lauren and Rhiannon found themselves communicating through a creative interplay that inspired them both.

Through their collaboration, Lauren and Rhiannon have explored their shared passion for the botanical world, formed a rewarding artistic connection, and created a collection of images that celebrate natural forms of botanical materials and the artistic composition that occurs through arranging and photographing them.

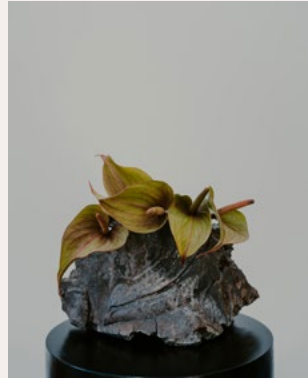

Below we outline the portfolio of artworks displayed in the exhibition “Wildflower”, Barton ArtBox, 2 - 10 November 2024, alongside a number of other works which are also available for sale.

THE ARTISTS

RHIANNON BERRY

Rhiannon Berry is an artist working with flowers. She is particularly interested in exploring intersections between traditional craft techniques and contemporary art practice, as well as working on collaborative projects. She believes that creative engagement and forms of artistic expression are fundamental to a sense of wellbeing and runs a mentoring program and creative activities based around this philosophy. She has a long held interest in all aspects of art, design and contemporary craft, and enjoys approaching the world with a curious eye, finding beauty in the unusual and unexpected.

LAUREN SUTTON

Lauren Sutton is a Canberra based photographer focusing on capturing the people and landscapes that make Canberra special. Lauren's photography style takes a documentary approach with a strong emphasis on storytelling.

She has photographed many people at important moments and transitions in their lives, and values the privilege of being part of this journey.

Lauren was a finalist in the National Photographic Portrait Prize 2022.

PHOTOGRAPHY SERIES

*A collaboration of floral photography:
Floral arrangements by The Roseologist
Photography by Lauren Sutton*

This body of work was developed over an extended period of artistic inspiration, where Rhiannon delivered floral arrangements to Lauren's house each fortnight, who then photographed and edited them. Having an established sense of aesthetic trust and an understanding of each other's skills, gave Lauren and Rhiannon the freedom to explore new ideas and have a creative conversation through their work. Rhiannon left room for Lauren's interpretation and input, and in turn Lauren added her own inflections.

Through their collaborative process, Rhiannon and Lauren aim to make compositions that honour the simple beauty of their botanical subjects.

WREATH & MIRROR SERIES

The work in this series explores time honoured craft processes within a contemporary art context. Selecting naturally dried botanical elements as a medium and assuming a deliberate, artisanal approach, has allowed Rhiannon to push back against the disposable culture that we find ourselves in, creating artworks that feel wild and free.

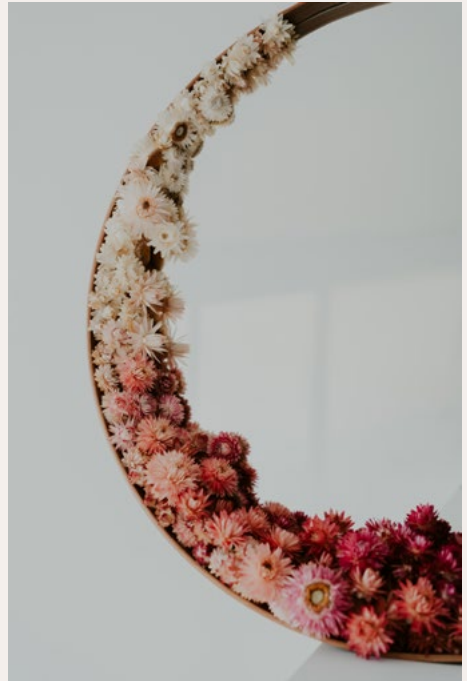

Rhiannon's aim is to encourage viewers to reflect on the transitory state of living things, life cycles and transformation. With fresh eyes, a dried flower becomes an interesting abstract form that has a fragile beauty of its own merit.
