NORTH FORK DRESSER

Composed mass, articulated through contrast

The North Fork Dresser extends the collection’s architectural language into a larger, more commanding form. Designed to anchor a space with quiet confidence, the dresser balances strong horizontal presence with carefully considered detail.

A contrasting lighter wood finish is inset into the top surface, the front face of the top, and the first drawer, forming a continuous band of color blocking that visually unifies the piece. This rectangular inset establishes a sense of order and refinement, breaking the mass of the dresser into intentional layers.

Below, the remaining drawers are rendered in a deeper tone, reinforcing the visual hierarchy and grounding the piece. Timeless in character and generous in function, the North Fork Dresser embodies a calm, architectural sensibility—one that values precision, material integrity, and enduring design.

NORTH FORK NIGHTSTAND

Architectural calm, defined through contrast

The North Fork Nightstand is an exploration of balance, restraint, and refined contrast. Its form is grounded and composed, designed to bring a sense of quiet structure to the bedside while allowing material and proportion to take precedence.

A defining feature of the piece is its use of color blocking. A contrasting lighter wood finish is inset into the top surface, the front face of the top, and the first drawer, creating a layered rectangular frame within the larger form. This precise inset introduces depth and visual rhythm, lending the nightstand a quietly sophisticated presence without ornamentation.

The contrast is deliberate and architectural rather than decorative—an interplay of tone and plane that emphasizes clarity of construction. Understated yet distinctive, the North Fork Nightstand supports daily rituals with ease and intention, reflecting PARISII philosophy of refined simplicity.
