MICHELE BELIEVES...

Elite athletes aren't built through more training.

They're built through better development.

For over two decades, Michele Moore has helped athletes from youth hockey to NHL professionals, develop the technical foundations, confidence, and mindset required to perform at the highest level.

Drawing from her unique background as a World Champion synchronized figure skater and elite hockey development coach, Michele brings a perspective few coaches possess: the ability to see movement differently, teach it intentionally, and connect technical performance with long-term athlete development.

Today, Michele speaks to organizations, coaches, parents, and athletes about the future of hockey, coach education, leadership, and building environments where athletes thrive.
