INTRODUCING SHAUN CLEARWATER, CWMS

FULL FOCUS FINANCIAL

Shaun Clearwater is known for his unique, personalized approach to financial planning and the innovative, non-traditional strategies he has developed over the last two decades. He emphasizes that optimizing a financial life requires protecting resources from loss—much like insulating electrical conductors to prevent energy leakage, a concept rooted in his engineering studies while earning his Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering from the University of the Pacific. Without the right insulation, energy dissipates; likewise, without proper protection, personal finances remain exposed to market volatility, taxes, and inflation.

Shaun's clients value the clarity and confidence they gain as he guides them from point A to point B with a structured, actionable plan. Many experience immediate relief once their goals are defined and prioritized. Drawing on his expertise as a Certified Wealth Management Specialist (CWMS) and licensed Investment Advisor Representative, Shaun helps individuals and families align their retirement planning, tax strategy, and estate planning into one cohesive roadmap. Whether implementing guaranteed-income strategies, coordinating beneficiary structures, or leveraging private family foundations to redirect tax dollars toward meaningful charitable missions, Shaun's clients consistently express feelings of relief, confidence, and long-term stability after working with him.

Countless families have achieved or exceeded their retirement and investment objectives through Shaun's stewardship. His commitment to excellence has earned him recognition as a top financial professional, including a feature on Fox News.

Education, uncommon strategic thinking, and true financial liberation are central to Shaun's work. Clients also appreciate his devotion as a father to his three daughters, including the joy and energy of his four-year-old, who reminds him daily to appreciate life's small moments. Shaun is also active in his community, having coached softball, served on the board of the Girl Scouts, and supported various nonprofit organizations.

In addition to his financial practice, Shaun recently opened Hop Riot, an upscale lounge in Wheatland designed to give the community a welcoming space for craft drinks, small plates, and meaningful connection.

Individuals seeking peace of mind, guaranteed retirement income solutions, or advanced planning strategies can benefit from Shaun's collaborative and highly personalized expertise. Connect today for a brief conversation to explore how your goals can become your reality—whether you're local or across the country.
