SKINCARE

Maintaining a skincare routine is not only vital to great looking skin on your wedding day, it also provides a perfect canvas for flawless looking makeup.

2-3 months before your wedding

This may be tense time so you should be pumping your skin full of hydrating, energizing ingredients. Think about adding a mask to your routine once a week to keep your skin supple and hydrated.

01

SKINCARE

1 month before your wedding

Avoid any new or extreme treatments. Your final facial (if you've been having them) should be at least 3 -4 days before the wedding.

Focus on gently cleansing, exfoliating and moisturising.

Night before the wedding day

Its always nice to use a moisturising mask the night before the big day for glowing skin. I recommend the Medicube gel masks.

Your wedding day

Its your day off! Your stylist will treat your skin to some pampering before they do the makeup. After all the hard work you've done your skin will be glowing!!

04

FACIALS

This will depend on each individual. I would recommend booking a facial in now and seeing how your skin reacts before booking your pre wedding one.

Speak to your skin specialist about a wedding prep timeline.

02

TANNING

If you want that bronzed glow on your big day but you end up looking more like a tomato after a day in the sun, then a spray tan may be your best option. I would recommend to do a trial run for your hen do and see how it fades down after a couple of days. See how it wears and when you like it best! Just also bare in mind to have this at least 24 hours after waxing and exfoliation.

03

LASHES & BROWS

You may decide you want to groom those brows and lift those lashes! Again, if your new to this, please try this out first! Make sure you don't react to the product, you like the overall look and your comfortable with them. If your happy, make sure you book this again for 4-6 days before your big day, giving time for any post waxing/perming redness, acne and tint to tone down.

THE BIG DAY

Your morning prep, schedule and set up!

MORNING PREP

So, your big day has finally arrived and it's time to get ready! You're feeling a mixture of nerves and excitement but we don't want any stress to creep in! So let's run through the morning, so you're prepared for anything!

DELEGATE!

Choose someone you trust to take over

They will be at your beck and call for everything you need. Make sure they know the time schedule, contact details for the suppliers and when they should be arriving, such as florist, photographer etc. They can be making sure everything runs smoothly so you can sit back and relax!

PREP WEAR

It's best if you and your bridal party are all wearing something front opening while your being pampered, so not to effect the hair & makeup. If you have pyjama sets for your bridesmaids, make sure they have them on before they get in the hot seat!

Note – Try and avoid wearing tight bras or socks to avoid marks showing when wearing the dresses. Also steam dresses the night before if possible, steam can effect the hair and makeup

MORNING PREP

BRIDAL PARTY

Logistics of arrival

When will your bridal party be arriving??

Is everyone coming together or at different times throughout the morning?

This will need to be factored in when we are working out your schedule.

PHOTOS

Making time for those shots!

If there are particular shots you would like such as, everyone in their robes with hair & makeup done, bridal portraits, a toast with your favourite people or bridal reveal pictures.....then we will need to allow some time for these to be done.

Normally I aim to have you ready 60/90 mins before your ceremony for getting dressed and pictures, so if you need more time than this please let me know.

Always allow longer than you think you need for getting ready. Make sure everyone knows what time they will be needed for their hair/makeup to be done.

MORNING PREP

THE SET UP

Think about the area for prep

You may be getting ready at home or at your venue, but there are a couple of things we need to consider when setting up the space.

Where is the most natural light?

Are there enough chairs?

Where are the plug sockets?

Are there surfaces I can put my kit on? Be prepared for me to come in and totally rearrange the furniture, I like to make myself at home! :)

THE DRESS

Time for the fiddly stuff

Who is putting you into your dress and how long does it take?

Some dresses are super quick and easy to get into and some are not.

Make sure that whoever is doing your dress up has practised and knows what they are doing. The last hour of getting ready can be hectic, I've seen many people defeated by the fiddly button & fancy long wedding nails combo!

MORNING PREP

BRIDESMAIDS DRESSES

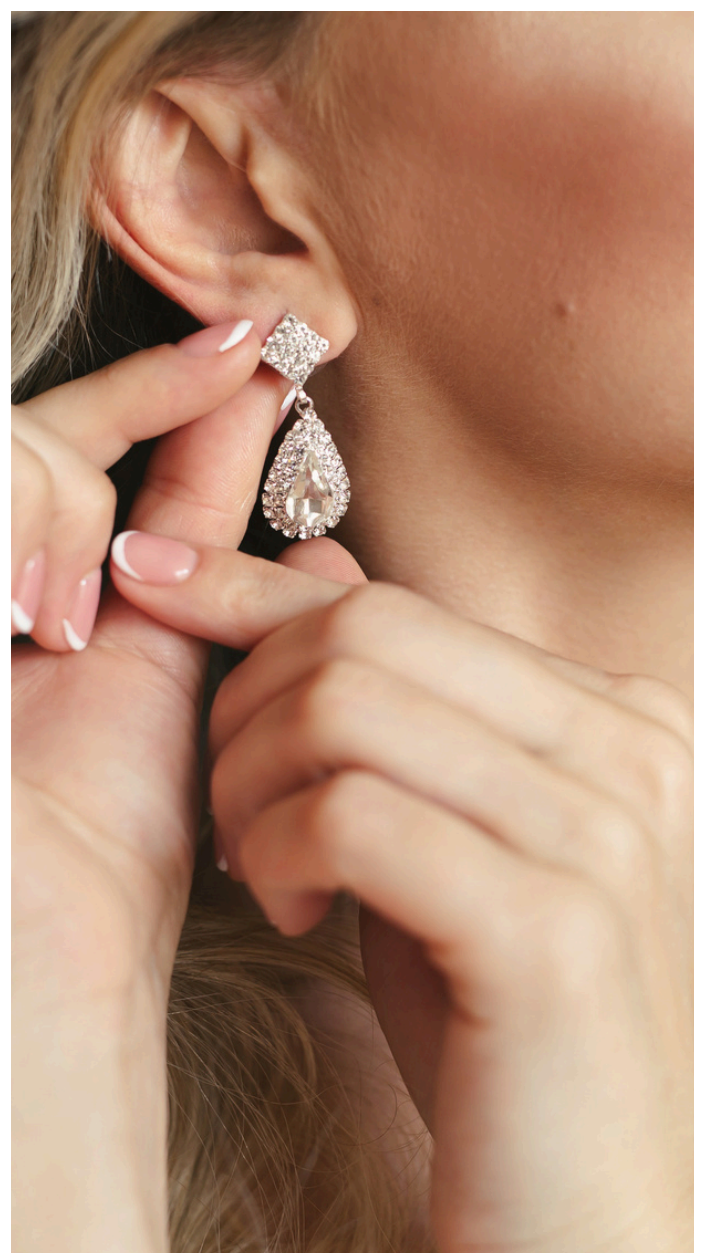

Its also a great idea if your bridal party are in their outfits ready for when you are getting into yours. This ensures that whoever is helping you into your dress is ready and can focus solely on you. It also means everyone is ready and waiting for the big reveal.

I've also been known to help fasten shoes, zip up dresses, attach button holes, hold babies and be on hand with tissues at emotional moments!

EXTRAS

For the extra bits.....

Body makeup - If you have any tattoos, blemishes etc that you would like to be covered please let me know, we can do this once your dressed so we know what's on show. I can also apply highlighter to your shoulders & collar bone for that extra glow! :)

THE SCHEDULE

Your wedding prep timeline

THE SCHEDULE

Makeup & Hair

10:30am - Bryony Makeup

11:10am - Steph Makeup

11:50am - Kayla Hair & Makeup

1:30pm - Jan Makeup

3pm - Bridal Party leaves

3:30pm - Ceremony

DONT PANIC...

If we run slightly over with one of them, we have scheduled enough time to make sure everyone is done with plenty of time before the ceremony.

If anything changes, or you would like to make more time for specific images etc, please let me know and we can adjust the timings accordingly.

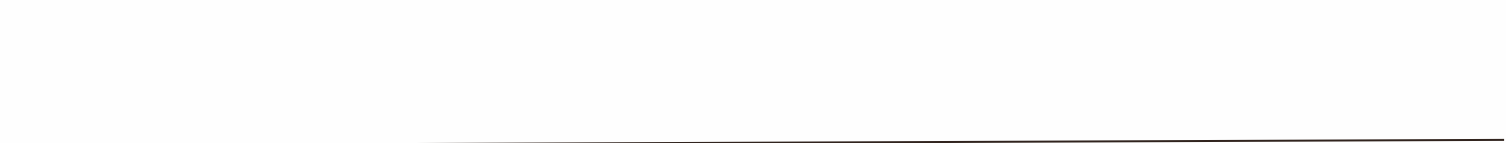

We may also want to take some images or reels of the process & results. Please let me know if anyone would prefer not to be in any of the media taken from the morning.

Just a little extra to help you pack for your bridal prep!
